INDIANA'S GREATEST STORE

OPENINGS CONTINUED THROUGH THURSDAY

These two departments are a treat to feminine tastes. There are so many things in each department to see, and seeing means in the end buying, for never was a finer showing presented in Indianapolis or vicinity. The New York Store certainly leads in this respect. Come Thursday and inspect the showing; see the new styles in vogue for the new season. -Second Floor.

THE D. A. R. GARDEN PARTY. The Caroline Scott Harrison Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution gave a delightful garden party yesterday afternoon at the home of its president-general, Mrs. Charles W. Fairbanks, on North Meridian street. The large yard presented a pretty sight, being gayly decorated with flags and bunting of the national colors. The visitors were welcomed by Mrs. Fairbanks. Mrs. James M. Fowler, State regent, Mrs. S. E. Perkins, chapter regent, and Mrs. Chapin C. Foster, honorary State regent, who stood in a marquee tent near the entrance. In the other tents scattered over the ground were other members of the chapter, and refreshments were served in one of the tents. One of the attractions was the continuous vaudeville, which was arranged by Mrs. H. C. G. Bals, Mrs. John Downing Johnson and Mrs. C. N. Williams. Here children in costume represented dolls, all kinds and nationalities being on display. Morris Hamilton, aged six years, played cornet solos, Miss Louise Tutewiler sang several coon songs and there were other features of interest. The proceeds will be the contribution from the local

FAIR AND FALL PESTIVAL

HERALDS CIRCULATED ADVERTIS-ING INDIAN SUMMER FETE.

Prizes Offered to Merchants for Su perior Decorations-Additional Prizes for Horse Show.

State fair visitors were "handed something" yesterday. It was not, in the language of the street, "a hot one," but a "good thing." They were handed the first edition of the Fall Festival Herald, a welledited and bountifully-illustrated publication of the festival committee enumerating month from this week at the annual festival and horse show. There were pictures ing aerial cycle whirl, the diving horses, the Temple of Music and the Zouave drillsand the De Krako aggregation of Oriental shows, Eagle Eye's Indian village and all the other attractions at Festival Field. There was also a liberal display of horse show types and a bird's-eye view of the festival and horse show as they will appear in October.

The fall festival is held in the choicest period of the beautiful Hoosier autumn-Indian summer. The provisions for beautifying festival field and its approaches are expanding daily as the needs for all details are more thoroughly understood. To encourage private displays during festival week the festival committee has offered prizes aggregating $300 which may be competed for by all merchants making a display that is not permanent and is new. The prizes are: First, $150; second, $75; third, $50, and fourth, $25. A number of merchants have already told the committee that they would provide attractive decorations for the front of their buildings and the committee has reason to believe that everyone on Washington street, particularly from Illinois street to Festival Field, will display festival colors-red and yellowand horse show colors-white and green-in

The work on the buildings of Festival Field has advanced enough to afford visitors to the fair an adequate idea of the magnitude of the enterprise. The grading of the promenades and the arena of the horse show shows how large an area of territory must be used to accomodate the numerous attractions that have been engaged. Entries for the horse show classes have been made liberally by those exhibiting in the show ring at the State fair and to give all an opportunity to enter full stables the horse show committee has added the following classes: Gaited Saddle Mare or Gelding-Increased to: First prize, $100; second, $50; third, $30; Special for Gaited Saddle Horses, Threeyear-olds and Under-First prize, $50; second prize, $30; third prize, $20. Coach Stallion, any Age, to be Shown at Rein-First prize, $100; second, $50; third, $30.
